Practical Information

Seasonal Guide to NYC

Spring (April-May): Mild weather (50-70°F), cherry blossoms in Central Park and Brooklyn Botanic Garden, outdoor dining season begins, and fewer crowds than summer. Perfect for walking tours and park visits.

Summer (June-August): Warm to hot (70-85°F), peak tourist season with maximum crowds and highest prices. Excellent free outdoor concerts, movies in parks, and rooftop bars. Shakespeare in the Park and SummerStage events. Prepare for occasional heat waves and humidity.

Fall (September-November): Ideal weather (55-70°F), stunning foliage in parks, especially late October. Fashion Week, New York Film Festival, and Halloween Parade. Less crowded than summer, pleasant temperatures for exploring.

Winter (December-February): Cold (25-40°F) but magical with holiday decorations, Rockefeller Center Christmas tree, ice skating rinks, and New Year's Eve in Times Square. Indoor attractions are less crowded (except holidays). Bundle up! January-February offer lowest prices and smallest crowds.

Best Overall: Late April-May and September-October offer optimal weather and manageable crowds.

Getting Around NYC

Subway (MTA): The most efficient way to travel - 472 stations across 27 lines operating 24/7. Single ride $2.90, unlimited 7-day pass $34 (highly recommended for tourists). Use the MTA app for real-time updates and trip planning. Avoid rush hours (7:30-9:30 AM, 4:30-7 PM) when possible.

Buses: Same fare as subway using MetroCard or OMNY contactless payment. Good for crosstown travel and viewing neighborhoods. Select Bus Service (SBS) routes offer faster service with fewer stops.

Taxis & Ride-Shares: Yellow cabs are metered (starting $3 base + $0.70 per 1/5 mile). Only hail yellow cabs in Manhattan; green cabs serve outer boroughs. Uber/Lyft available citywide but expensive during peak hours. All taxis accept credit cards.

Walking: Manhattan's grid system makes walking easy and enjoyable. Most major attractions are walkable from each other. Comfortable shoes essential!

Citi Bike: Bike-share system with 1,000+ stations. Day pass $19, single ride $4.49. Great for exploring neighborhoods at your own pace. Download app for station locations.

Ferries: NYC Ferry offers scenic routes connecting Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens with flat $4.50 fare. Staten Island Ferry is free!

From Airports: JFK: AirTrain + subway ($11), taxi ~$70-80, ride-share ~$60-100. LaGuardia: M60 bus + subway ($2.90), taxi/ride-share ~$40-60. Newark: NJ Transit train ($13), taxi ~$75-100.

- Express Bus (NYC Airporter): Direct coach service to Midtown Manhattan in about 60-75 minutes depending on traffic, roughly $19 one-way

Best Photography & Instagram Locations

Brooklyn Bridge: Walk from Manhattan side for skyline shots. Best times: sunrise (6-7 AM, golden light, empty bridge) or blue hour after sunset. Also photograph from Brooklyn Bridge Park for bridge + skyline composition.

Top of the Rock: 70th-floor observation deck offers unobstructed Empire State Building views. Sunset timing crucial - arrive 30 minutes before. Shoot through glass cleanly using lens hood.

DUMBO, Brooklyn: Washington Street between Front and Water Streets - iconic Manhattan Bridge framed by buildings shot. Best during morning golden hour. Arrive early (7 AM) to avoid crowds and vehicles.

Central Park: Bow Bridge (classic romantic spot), Bethesda Terrace (architectural details), The Mall (tree-lined pathway, best fall), Cherry Hill fountain (spring blooms). Sunrise provides soft light and solitude.

Times Square: Night photography essential for neon lights. Shoot from TKTS red steps for elevated perspective. Use traffic light trails for dynamic shots. Rainy nights create brilliant reflections.

Vessel at Hudson Yards: Geometric architecture perfect for abstract compositions. Inside and exterior shots both stunning. Midday for high contrast shadows, overcast for softer lighting.

Flatiron Building: Shoot from Madison Square Park or Fifth Avenue intersection. Early morning provides soft light and fewer pedestrians. Include foreground elements for depth.

The High Line: Urban garden views, city glimpses through buildings, public art installations. Best in late afternoon when light angles across buildings. Springtime offers blooming flowers.

Grand Central Terminal: Main Concourse: shoot celestial ceiling and light rays from windows (11 AM-1 PM best). Use tripod for long exposures if allowed. Whispering Gallery for architectural details.

One World Observatory: Floor 100-102 offers 360° views. Sunset over Hudson River spectacular. Bring polarizing filter to reduce window reflections. Northwest corner for Statue of Liberty shots.

Graffiti & Street Art: Bushwick Collective (Brooklyn, colorful murals), Lower East Side (ever-changing street art), Williamsburg walls. Midday even lighting works well for vivid colors.

Photography Tips: Golden hour (hour after sunrise, hour before sunset) provides best natural light. Blue hour (twilight) perfect for cityscapes with artificial lighting. Weekday mornings (before 9 AM) offer smallest crowds at popular spots. Bring wide-angle lens for architecture, telephoto for skyline details. Check weather - overcast days create even lighting, clear days offer dramatic shadows, rainy nights produce amazing reflections. Always respect private property and follow posted photography rules.

Electricity & Electronics

Voltage: United States uses 110-120 volts AC, 60Hz frequency - different from most countries which use 220-240V.

Plug Types: Type A (two flat parallel pins) and Type B (two flat parallel pins + grounding pin) are standard. These are North American style plugs.

Adapters Needed: Visitors from Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and South America will need plug adapters. Purchase before traveling or at airports, electronics stores (Best Buy, Target), or pharmacies (CVS, Duane Reade). Expect to pay $10-20 for quality adapters.

Voltage Converters: If your devices only support 220-240V, you'll need a voltage converter/transformer (not just an adapter). However, most modern electronics (laptops, phone chargers, cameras) are dual-voltage (110-240V) - check device label. Only the plug adapter is needed for dual-voltage devices.

USB Charging: USB outlets increasingly common in hotels, cafes, and public spaces. USB charging cables work universally. Consider bringing a multi-port USB charger.

Power Banks: Useful for long days exploring. Ensure power banks are 100Wh for airline travel. Many cafes and museums offer charging stations.

Where to Buy: B&H Photo (Manhattan's largest electronics store), Apple Store (multiple locations), Best Buy, Target, or any pharmacy chain. Airport shops carry adapters but at premium prices.
